

Dubrovnik and the Elaphiti Islands Highlights

HOLIDAY TYPE: Small Group

VISITING: Croatia

BROCHURE CODE: 5549

DURATION: 7 nights

In Brief

Based on Sipan Island, this seven-night holiday is an active way to explore Croatia and the breathtaking Dalmatian Coast. Discover the coastal fortress of Dubrovnik and three Croatian islands, Lopud, Koločep and Sipan during kayaking, cycling, hiking and much more. There's also plenty of time between activities to relax, explore and delve into the local history and culture.

Our Opinion

“ My wife and I spent our honeymoon in Croatia. Every evening was spent at a harbourside restaurant, chomping away at delicious seafood while the sun descended slowly into the sea. The entire western skyline turned myriad shades of pink and orange as the burning globe sank into the darkening waters of the Adriatic. If there is a better way to relax after an active day then we'd dearly like to know about it.

Trip Overview

Dubrovnik is stately, imposing and magnificent. It's little wonder that this coastal fortress has provided many a backdrop for historical or fantasy-based television (think Game of Thrones). You could spend day after day exploring the maze of streets, alleys and squares, the honey-coloured and red roof topped buildings, the cafes, bars and restaurants and, best of all, the utterly captivating views earned by walking the walls that protect this fortified city.

In the summer months, Dubrovnik is a very busy place and so this holiday is based on a small island less than an hour's ferry journey from the city but, a million miles away in terms of visitor numbers.

Alongside Dubrovnik, there are few stretches of coastal waters as stunning as that of Dalmatia. This trip combines Dubrovnik with the three “main” islands of the Elaphiti Archipelago, Sipan (pronounced “Shipan”), Lopud and Koločep (“Koločep”).

Sipan is the largest of the Elaphiti Islands and will be your base for the week. You will be staying in the charming and archetypically Croatian fishing village of Šipanska Luka.

After an active day, dining outside on fresh seafood, fish and traditional Croatian fare could not be a more enticing prospect. Fortunately, there are several local restaurants close to your guesthouse, including some fantastic dining terraces, which are only a peeled prawn shell’s throw from the gently lapping water of the Adriatic.

The sunsets here are unforgettable so why not linger a while with a glass or two of the local wine while the burning orange ball descends slowly into the Adriatic? ‘Tis heavenly.

From this Sipan base, our guides will help you to explore Lopud, Koločep and Sipan itself during a fun-filled activity week. All the necessary equipment is provided so there’s no need to worry about anything other than listening to the guides’ instructions and having a thoroughly enjoyable holiday.

You’ll find yourself exploring the smaller Elaphiti islands by sea kayak and paddleboard as well as cycling on Sipan, hiking on Lopud, and sea kayaking and sailing the waters that surround Koločep.

Combine these activities with a day exploring Dubrovnik and plenty of time to enjoy Sipan’s sandy beaches and you’ve pretty much got this part of Croatia covered.

DAY

ARRIVAL, TRANSFERS AND ACCOMMODATION

After arriving in Dubrovnik, you will take your transfer from the airport to Gruz Harbour to catch a ferry across to Sipan at approximately 4pm*. The crossing is less than an hour during which the Dalmatian Coast will begin to reveal its barely believable beauty.

Once you have settled into your accommodation there may be time to stroll through the village or enjoy a swim and a spot of sunbathing before a free evening.

*We recommend arriving in Dubrovnik by 3pm in order to take the ferry transfer at approximately 4:30pm. If you arrive after this time, you may miss the welcome orientation briefing and it is likely that a private transfer or night in Dubrovnik (at an additional cost) may be required.

Included Meals: NoneDAY

ELAPHITI ISLANDS PADDLEBOARDING

Early risers might want to take advantage of the relatively cool morning by strolling under the palm tree-lined seafront as the village slowly rouses itself ahead of another day.

On a typically fine day in Croatia, everything will be blue. The sky will be blue, the sea will be blue, and the distant islands appear as shimmering bluey-grey protrusions interspersed around the Adriatic. It's almost hypnotic, just sitting there looking out to sea while sipping an early morning coffee but don't linger too long because breakfast will be waiting before the active fun begins.

Today is your opportunity to try paddleboarding, a sport whose popularity is very much on the increase. Don't worry if you fall into the crystal-clear Adriatic water, everybody does it and it's lovely and warm.

You'll head out from a tranquil beach in Sudurad, just a short transfer from your guesthouse. From here you can enjoy beautiful views of the neighbouring island of Lopud and, if weather permits, the group can explore Sipan's glorious green cave on SUPs.

The activity lasts around two hours allowing plenty of time to relax or swim back at Sipanska Luka.

You will see throughout that lunches are not included as standard in this holiday but fear not, there are some wonderful options available each day. Things are designed to be flexible so the guide can make suggestions based on the group's preferences and you can choose where you would like to eat on each day.

Included Meals: BreakfastDAY

CYCLING ON SIPAN ISLAND

After breakfast, you'll be sized up for your bike before heading out onto Sipan's one and only meaningful road which links Sipanska Luka with Sudjuradj. The lack of roads means that there is very little traffic making for some lovely, relaxed cycling and it's a mere 3 miles between the two villages so easily within the capabilities of just about anybody.

The morning does start with a rise as you head away from the coast and, if you are struggling, then simply put the bike in the easiest gear and take as much time as you want to get to the top. It's more than worth the effort when you arrive at a hilltop farm surrounded by olive groves and the best vantage point on the whole island.

From the farm, it's easy riding for the 2.5 miles to Sudjuradj, so enjoy the lovely countryside and keep an eye out for churches, chapels and monasteries. There are also quite a few holiday villas here owned by wealthy residents of Dubrovnik. It's hard not to be envious!

The final descent back to the hotel is just fantastic fun and people have been known to go back up just to do it again! The activity lasts about two hours so there'll be plenty of time to relax, swim, snorkel or explore before another splendid sunset fills the sky.

DAY

DUBROVNIK

There are loads of clichés bandied around to describe tourist destinations but, in Dubrovnik's case, "The Jewel of the Adriatic" is richly deserved.

Dubrovnik is the stuff of legend. A coastal fortress with myriad streets, alleys, squares, red-roofed buildings and more history – both ancient and modern – than you can shake a stick at.

The absolute best way to see the city in all its magnificent grandeur is by walking the city walls. Slap on the Factor 50, wear a wide-brimmed hat and take plenty of water because the walls are exposed to the sun, but the lofty views are more like CGI film sets than real life.

Standing on the easterly wall gives the very best panorama across the tiled red roofs and higgledy-piggledy stone buildings to the glistening Adriatic with its white-sailed yachts and the islands beyond.

For a different perspective, why not take the short journey from the harbour to Lokrum, "The Cursed Island"? The views of Dubrovnik's city walls from the boat are spectacular and the island itself yields plenty of reward in the form of a monastery, a small lake, a fort and a botanical garden.

You'll find that culture, history, gastronomy and architecture are all at the centre of Dubrovnik's powerfully beating heart. It truly is a wonderful, wonderful city.

Your guide will accompany you on the 30-minute walk from the port to the city and then you will have free time to explore the sights at leisure before returning to Sipan later in the day. If you would rather take the bus from the port to the city, this can be paid for locally.

Included Meals: Breakfast

HIKING ON LOPUD ISLAND

It's a short ferry journey over to Lopud which has many walking routes taking you from sea level to the island's summit. The walks rise gently to the summit and, for the most part, follow shaded paths through the woods.

The summit reveals not only stunning views of the Adriatic coast but also some of Lopud's history in the form of a strategically positioned fort. In less tranquil days, this lookout post served to warn the islanders of incoming trouble.

After enjoying the views, the gentle descent returns you to your start point approximately 2 to 3 hours after you left it. The short return ferry trip will leave you with time to do your own thing back on Sipan. Dinner is included this evening so that the group can gather and discuss the adventure so far.

Included Meals: Breakfast

KOLOČEP SEA KAYAKING AND SAILING

If sea kayakers could design the perfect place in which to indulge their passion the Elaphiti Islands would likely be as close to perfection as you can get!

This archipelago of small islands with its rugged coastlines, hidden coves and secluded sandy beaches are ideal for exploring. The calm waters of the Adriatic make sea kayaks the perfect mode of transport too as you head for three uninhabited islands, Jakljan, Tajan and Olipa. Only accessible by small boats the beaches are quiet and the marine life largely undisturbed. You'll take full advantage of these glorious spots by taking breaks to swim and snorkel in these unspoilt bays along the Croatian coastline.

The kayaking will last for approximately 3 hours.

Should you fancy a change from sea kayaking, there will be snorkelling equipment available. It's well worth taking to the crystal-clear Adriatic as these waters are a such a rich source of marine life.

This afternoon you'll set sail on a two-hour cruise, and what better way than to sit back, relax and enjoy the views than from a catamaran?

As you glide across the azure waters, occasionally, you can see flashes of silvery grey as pods of dolphins swim alongside the boat.

Following the day's adventures, you'll return to your guesthouse for some time to relax.

Included Meals: Breakfast
