Our Opinion

“Lapland is so popular during the winter months but this area has so much to offer during the summer and autumn seasons too – the Inari area in particular is rich with local history and culture and the activities chosen as part of this itinerary are designed to really show it off. To beat the crowds (and heat!) in southern Europe we highly recommend visiting Scandinavia to relax and recharge this summer.”

Trip Overview

Immerse yourself in the magic of the Finnish summer at Inari, a captivating destination nestled high above the Arctic Circle. Bask in the endless daylight of the Midnight Sun, a unique phenomenon where the sun lingers above the horizon, casting an ethereal glow over the landscape. Choose to either relax, unwind, and enjoy the tranquillity or add on some of the optional activities such as guided hiking with huskies, fat biking or kayaking on the lake all set against a backdrop of stunning lake vistas. With average temperatures of around 15-20°C during the summer months and full daylight from May through until late August (when the Aurora begins to be visible again)

We have included several activities which allow you to learn more about the rich heritage of the Sámi people, the indigenous inhabitants of the Arctic, and their history in this area and the importance of this village to their culture. Inari offers an unforgettable summer escape, blending nature's majesty with cultural immersion.

Wilderness Hotel Inari is an incredibly popular hotel for us over on our Aurora Zone brand and we have sent thousands of happy travellers there since it opened in 2017. The welcoming staff, delicious food and idyllic setting are just as stunning in the summer months as when the snow arrives too.

Our pick

Berry picking

On this journey, you will visit forests and wetlands in search of the greatest locations for "earth gold," which includes blueberries and cloudberries. Hopefully, we will find a nice location with plenty of berries for us to gather and put in our baskets. Berries have a major role in harvesting, which occurs throughout the summer. We'll stop for a quick picnic in the outdoors during the journey. Spend the day living like a local as berry picking is a really popular pastime with those living in Northern Finland.
